Jury Told Air Injection Was Fatal; State Rests

MANCHESTER, N. H., March 2.—(P)—The state rested this afternoon in the Sander "mercy death" murder trial.

Judge Harold E. Wescott promptly denied a defense motion for a directed verdict of acquittal.

MANCHESTER, N. H., March 2.—(P)—The state's star medical witness said today that he believed Mrs. Abbie Borroto was killed by an air injection in her veins administered by Dr. Hermann N. Sander.

Dr. Milton Helpman, deputy medical examiner of New York

City, gave this testimony as the state neared the close of its first-degree murder case against the 41-year-old country doctor.

At the end of a long hypothetical question, Dr. Helpman said: "My opinion death was caused by an air embolism resulting from the injection of 40 ccs of air."

That is the account of the state charges Dr. Sander injected into Mrs. Borroto's arm last Dec. 4 in a gesture of mercy to end the agony of her cancer.

Dr. Helpman said:

"The basis for my opinion is that 40 cubic centimeters of air represents a substantial quantity if injected rapidly and would be carried into the heart and pulmonary artery."

The prosecution medical expert testified that while the autopsy could not disclose presence of air, it was "significant" in that it didn't reveal any other cause of death which would have necessarily caused as rapid a death at the time death occurred."

After long cross-examination by defense counsel, Helpman completed his testimony at the noon recess. Attorney General William L. Phinney said he might call King said Sander gave a short history of the case" referring to it as the "terminal stage of cancer."

Dr. King said Dr. Sander told

"Mercy-Killing" Trial Doctors Can't Agree When Death Hit Cancer Victim

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE Associated Press Service Editor.

MANCHESTER, N. H., March 2.—(P)—The doctors disagree as to whether Mrs. Abbie Borroto was dead when Dr. Hermann N. Sander injected air into a vein in her arm.

This difference of medical opinion showed up in the closing hours of the prosecution testimony in Dr. Sander's trial for "mercy" killing.

It was the same difference that lesser personages have given in evidence ever since the testimony started one week ago. This time it came from the top arbiters, whose opinion is usually taken as final.

As today's testimony started, the count stood:

1. Doctor Robert E. Biron that she was alive.

2. Dr. Ralph L. Miller that she could have been alive.

3. Dr. Albert Sny that she probably was dead.

Dr. Miller, who is eminent in medical circles, told the first story of an autopsy. He said it did not show the immediate cause of death.

Answering a hypothetical question, he said 40 cubic centimeters of air, the amount the state charges Dr. Sander injected, was enough to have caused death in Mrs. Borroto's condition.

To a second hypothetical question he answered that in his opinion air killed her. He said, however, that the autopsy was performed too long after death to prove whether air was the cause.

He gave the defense support for its contention that Mrs. Borroto's last gasp could have been from an already dead body.

This is the gasp which her nurse told about just as the air was injected.

The only other sign of life shown by the prosecution for the air injection period was slight twitching of face and arms.

Dr. Miller did not testify about twitching, but he said that for some hours after death it is possible for skeletal muscles to move. These are the muscles which attach one bone to another.

Dr. Miller added a new chapter to

Resigning Liquor Agent Says Can't Investigate Boss

DALLAS, March 2.—(P)—F. O. Goen of Irving resigned Thursday as deputy supervisor of the undercover agents' pool for North Texas of the Texas Liquor Control board, as the result of recent accusations hurled at Leonard B. Brown of Dallas, board chairman, by a member of the legislature.

Brown promptly denied the accusations and declared he was at a loss to understand Goen's action.

Goen's letter of resignation, addressed to Coke Stephenson, Jr., administrator of the board, at Austin, read in part as follows:

"Yesterday I learned that a member of the legislature had exposed to the public that Brown has a financial interest in a carrier permit which was issued to the Best Motor Freight Lines, Inc., of Dallas. Brown is president of this corporation."

"The Texas Liquor Control act says that no person may be appointed to the board who has any financial interest in any permit or license issued by the board. Naturally I would not feel free to investigate or report any law violations of this character if they began to violate the law. You just couldn't investigate your own boss."

Concerning the liquor shipment permit, Brown said:

"Our company, the Best Motor Freight Lines, is a common carrier. We are required to handle what freight is tendered to us. We have a permit only to haul whiskey. I have no interest in buying and selling whiskey, never have had such a permit and never will have."

Brown added that before he accepted the liquor board appointment, his attorneys checked carefully to determine whether the fact that his firm held a permit to haul liquor would cause his appointment to be in violation of the law. The attorneys held that it would not, he said.

When the issue came up in the legislature, Rep. Douglas Bergman of Dallas obtained a ruling from the attorney general that Brown was not violating the law in any manner, he said.

As to Goen's statement that "you just couldn't investigate your own boss," Brown said:

"I'll deny that charge. Co can investigate anyone he likes, anywhere, anytime, in my business or in anyone else's business. I claim no immunity."

Goen has been an employee of the liquor control board for 15 years, he said in his letter of resignation. The veteran agent also indicated that a difference with John Hilliard, chief investigator for the board, was involved in his decision to quit.

Truman Praises U. S. Defenses; Cites Economy

WASHINGTON, March 2.—(P)—President Truman said today United States defenses are in the best shape they have ever been in peace time.

Mr. Truman told a news conference he is aware of criticism in some quarters that the defense department's economy moves had weakened the nation's defense.

He added he didn't think there was any "word of truth" in it.

As a matter of fact, he went on, the country is in the best situation as to defenses that it has ever been in a period when it was not at war.

Defense economy moves have come under fire from columnists and others, including some members of congress and some military branch who feel their own branch of service is being cut too much.

In a report to Congress today, Secretary of Defense Johnson said the services have saved $501,000,000 of the $13,900,000,000 originally set aside for this year's spending.

He expressed confidence that the annual rate of saving would reach $1,000,000 by next Aug. 10, the first anniversary date of the unified

PLANS SET UP TO UNIFY ALL U. S. POLICIES

Coordinator Would Direct Work Of Various Groups

WASHINGTON, March 2.—(P)—

A plan designed to provide greater unity for the government's foreign and domestic economic policies was reported today to be under consideration at the White House.

The proposal, on which President Truman will have the final decision, was initiated in the state department. There was the proposal of Secretary Acheson that the United States must prepare to fight the cold war in a more complete manner than heretofore.

It is understood the proposal provides for an interdepartmental committee, composed of representatives of such agencies as state, treasury, commerce, and agriculture, which would function under White House direction. Provision is also made for a White House coordinator to direct the work of the committee.

Acheson and some other high government officials have argued a realignment of American domestic economic policies in some degree is necessary to make this nation's foreign economic policies fully effective.

For example, he favors tariff reductions and other measures which would open up American markets to greater sales of foreign goods.

The idea is to promote prosperity and economic stability in other areas, especially western Europe.

Some state department officials also say that the United States should consider the effect of its domestic agricultural programs on the world generally. They particularly want a study of whether a new aid plan may be found for this nation's agricultural surpluses that would help the anti-Communist world.

Perhaps the greatest problem involved lies in the field of economic recovery, Acheson, ECA Administrator Paul Hoffman and other top officials have already begun to work on the problem of what to do after the European recovery program ends in 1952.

Others considered hardly less urgent include:

1. The so-called "Sterling Balance"—Egypt, India, and some other nations are creditors to Britain for many millions of pounds sterling. Payments on these war debts are a drain against Britain's post-war economy.

2. The point four program—legislation for Mr. Truman's long-range program for economic development in Africa and Asia is still pending in Congress.

3. Non-European aid—with the spread of Communism southward in Asia, there has been increasing talk here of aid by the United States to southeast Asian countries.

Sheriff Robert L. Loth reported these developments:

1. Discovery in the jail of key made out of a sardine can. The key opened every handcuff the sheriff has in his office.

2. Theft of a car here last night, taken as an indication the jail still at large managed to hide out here while a search was pressed elsewhere.

3. Discovery of a hacksaw blade inside the Meadows' cell. Officers now believe the key with which the cell door was opened was made from metal taken from inside a light fixture—and fashioned with the hacksaw.

Of the three other escapees, one returned at 8 a.m. yesterday. The other two surrendered to Sheriff L. E. Campbell at Mason last night.

Sheriff Loth said the two San Antonio prisoners have taken part in several jail breaks and in almost every instance hid near the escape scene until they could steal a car to make their getaway. Loth said he was sure they were responsible for the theft of a late model Dodge sedan from Ervin Durst, proprietor of Gillespie county farmer, while the latter attended church here last night.

The sheriff said the returned prisoners told him one of the San Antonio men brought the hacksaw blade in from the state penitentiary, concealed in the sole of his shoe.

Officers Report 2 Jail Escapes "Clever Fellows"

FREDERICKSBURG, Tex., Mar. 2.—(P)—The two Gillespie county jail escapees still at large are clever fellows, officers conceded today.

Still at large of the five who broke out of the "escape proof" jail yesterday are James B. Meadows, 33, and William L. Meadows, 22, cousins from San Antonio. The three others are back in jail.

Sheriff Robert L. Loth reported these developments:

1. Discovery in the jail of key made out of a sardine can. The key opened every handcuff the sheriff has in his office.

2. Theft of a car here last night, taken as an indication the jail still at large managed to hide out here while a search was pressed elsewhere.

President Ready To Co-operate On Spy Probe

WASHINGTON, March 2.—(P)—

President Truman said today he is perfectly willing to co-operate with a Senate inquiry into charges that there is a Communist spy ring in the state department.

At the same time, Mr. Truman told his news conference that the question of turning over loyalty files on government employees to the investigators is one that he will pass on when he gets to it.

The Senate foreign relations committee has set up a special investigating group headed by Senator Tydings (D-Md.) to look into the charges by Senator McCarthy (R-Wis.) that there are Communists in the department.

Mr. Truman told his news conference that he is only for plans to utilize the United Nations in preserving the peace.

He did not comment directly, however, on a proposal by Chairman McMahon of the joint congressional atomic energy committee.

Then the president went on to say that he and the executive branch of the government have done everything that has been done to date to rid the government of subversives.

He said he had appointed a loyalty board and set up a screening procedure for federal employees and that the prosecution of those suspected of disloyalty had been carried on by the president and the executive department.

McCarthy will get a chance next Wednesday to name publicly the state department employees he has accused of being Communists.

Tydings said today he expects McCarthy to appear before the committee to present his case.

Advance Gifts For Red Cross Total $3,361

B. W. Woolley, advance gift chairman of the American Red Cross fund campaign, today said his committee has passed the half-way mark of its goal. The committee has turned in collections of $3,381. The advance gift quota is $6,500.

Mr. Truman repeated that he is not ever going to Moscow for such a meeting, but said he will object to nothing that will contribute to the peace of the world.

appeal the decision, he replied: "We think it can be appealed on the civil side." But he would not say whether the government planned such an appeal.

Wally K. Hopkins, union chief counsel, commented: "A fair and equitable decision."

Judge Keech said in his decision that: "It may be that the mass strike of union members has been ordered, encouraged, recommended, instructed, induced, or in some wise permitted by means not appearing in the record; But this court may not convict or conjecture, being bound to act only on the evidence before it, which is insufficient to support a finding of either criminal or civil contempt."

Judge Keech's written opinion said there was no clear evidence that the union had failed to obey his strike end order.

The judge said that this case was different from the 1948 contempt conviction of the UMW. He pointed out that the union in 1948 made no attempt to restore coal production as ordered by a court grant.

In the current strike, Keech said there was this different situation: "Following the court's order in the instant case, various telegrams, letters and other communications were sent by the union to its district and local branches and members, instructing the miners to return to work."

"The court does not hold that any telegram or combination of telegrams or letters would constitute a good faith compliance with an order directing action on the part of the union."

"It does hold that, where the union has sent communications such as are included in this record, the apparent good faith of such communications must be considered on failure to obtain results, but by clear and convincing evidence if they are to be ruled by a court of law to constitute only a token compliance."

"It was testified on behalf of the union that no union funds have been used to aid striking miners since issuance of the temporary restraining order. There was no attempt to disprove this testimony."

Thus Judge Keech ruled that while he was not saying that the union had tried to comply with his strike end order in "good faith," the court had no evidence that the union had disobeyed the order.

John L. Lewis, UMW president, twice sent back-to-work orders to the miners after Keech's Feb. 11 stop strike order was issued.

In effect, Keech said the weakness of the government's case was that it made no showing that Lewis was not in earnest when he sent these instructions to his union members.

At the capitol, meantime, Rep. Cox (D-Ga) told the House the coal stoppage has developed to the point of "insurrection against the government" and cannot be longer tolerated.

"I'd put it down if it called for the use of soldiers to do it," he said.

Mr. Truman's news conference was held some two hours before Keech announced his decision.

The President declined to be drawn out at length on the coal situation, giving as one reason the fact the court case was pending.

The President did say that he would follow the law to the letter in an effort to get coal production.

The miners' reaction in the coal fields still is: "No contract, no work." In Ohio, for example, hungry and destitute miners hung to their belief that "John L. Lewis will get us what we want."

Peace prospects in the nine-month-old contract dispute between Lewis and the coal mine owners were as dim as ever. A listless negotiating session yesterday broke up with "no progress at all."

On the political side, Senator Jenner (R-Ind) disclosed that Indiana Republicans in Congress have discussed whether impeachment proceedings ought to be started against President Truman for his handling of the situation.

Jenner said no decision has been made. The discussions were understood to be on the point that Mr. Truman should have invoked the Taft-Hartley law in the coal dispute much sooner than he did.

Other developments included:

1. Secretary of Defense Johnson ordered all military establishments to convert coal to a "bare minimum" and turn over any surplus to emergency civilian needs.

2. The federal reserve board said the coal strike had helped bring about a three per cent drop in industrial production in February. However, secretary of the treasury Snyder predicted a prosperous trend will be resumed quickly if the coal strike ends.

3. Rep. Wint Smith (R-Kas) said it is up to the states to take action if there is actually no union strike—which is the union argument.

"I understand that goon squads and pickets keep men from going back to work," Smith told a reporter. "The remedy is for the states to enforce laws against violence." Smith is a member of the house labor committee.

DOCTOR

him that before the alleged air injection he was dosing the patient with drugs at four-hour intervals.

Dr. King, "was that Dr. Sander said that before the injection of air the patient was very still, her eyes open and staring; and that after the injection of air her eyes remained open."

Dr. King said that Sander told him "there was no other reaction."

Attorney General William L.
Phinney asked Dr. King:

"How did he happen to mention the case?"

"Probably just as an interesting case such as doctors talk about," King replied.

The attorney general then called Dr. Milton Helpner, deputy medical examiner of New York City.

Dr. Helpner said he performs approximately 500 autopsies a year and has performed about 10,000 during his medical career.

Dr. Helpner described three kinds of embolisms:

When a blood clot is formed and carried to the circulatory system and carried to the pulmonary artery this is called pulmonary embolism.

The second one he said occurs after an injury when the tissue is crushed and oil droplets are formed, pass through the body, and reach the lung, brain or heart.

The third type, he said, is an air embolism when air finds its way into the veins and is carried by the circulatory system to the heart.

Dr. Helpner figured in the trial six years ago of Attorney John F.
Noxon, convicted of murdering his mentally deficient son.

In 1944 Noxon, wealthy corpora-tive lawyer of Springfield, Mass., was convicted of murder in the electrocution death of his six-months-old son, Lawrence.

Noxon originally was sentenced to death by electrocution. His sentence was commuted to life, and last year he was paroled.

There was no question of a "mercy" death in Noxon's trial. He insisted his baby came in contact with a trouble light cord in the family library while the father was fixing a radio.

New Hampshire officials have said Dr. Sander took Mrs. Borroto's life as an "act of mercy."

The final witness yesterday, Dr.
Ralph Miller, New Hampshire state pathologist, told the 13-man jury that forty cubic centimeters of air injected into the veins of a woman in Mrs. Borroto's condition could cause death.

"MERCY-KILLING"

in this case of the ability of a human being to stay alive.

The autopsy showed not only the original cancer in intestines and liver, but added five new sites. They were kidneys, thyroid gland, adrenal glands, abdominal walls and lymph glands, which are pumping stations for the watery white fluid that flows slowly in tissues.

And blood clots had checked the flow of blood in the lower half of her body.

Dr. Miller said there was no proof that any of these causes caused death. He said a person can be puzzled for days, but still live.

The nearest he came to defining death, under prodding of the defense, was to say it is the moment when the body's organs cease to coordinate so completely that there is no chance of getting them to work together again.

retained, said the escapees had broken the cell door with a key fashioned from a piece of bronze.

County Attorney Joe Petsch said
Daniel Paul Parker, 22, of Lubbock, surrendered quietly last night. Petsch said he thought the two prisoners still free went in a different direction from Parker and Craig.

There had been only two previous escapes from the jail, and in each case the escapees overpowered an officer.

Officers To Aid In Prison Census

In the enumeration of persons confined in prisons at the time of the 17th decennial census in April, the United States census bureau will enlist the co-operation of wardens, sheriffs, chiefs of police, jailers and similar officers. Prison officials will be advised before the enumeration begins that imprisoned persons, although deprived of certain privileges by their convictions, still are counted in the population census.

The bureau plans to take the census of prisons, working with the co-operation of local authorities. Particular emphasis is laid on the fact that all information is confidential.

Prisoners in federal penal institutions on April 1 will be enumerated by using information obtained from prison records.

CORSICANA, TEX., MAR. 3, 1950

THE RECOVERY PROGRAM

The sentiment for a substantial reduction in funds for the European Recovery Program apparently is strong in Congress. The weary taxpayer can be glad for almost any saving in government spending these days, but even so he wants to be sure that a cut in appropriations represents a genuine saving. In the case of the ERP funds, a reduction not wisely made could very well result in waste of the remaining funds and in still higher costs in some future year.

It is entirely likely that some of the things for which ERP funds have been asked could be reduced in cost or eliminated altogether, and the program might never miss them at all. But this program is not the sort which can be arbitrarily reduced on a percentage basis, be it five per cent or fifty, without the danger of making the whole program ineffective. If the program should be cut in such a way as to prevent the remaining activities from achieving their intended result, the whole thing might as well be abandoned.

The appropriation for the Marshall Plan should not be approached with the idea of saving some predetermined sum, in one way or another. It ought to be carefully examined, item by item, on the advice of people competent to judge the probable effectiveness of each activity and the accuracy of each cost estimate. With an intelligent effort of that nature, it is not unreasonable to suppose that a good round savings might in the end result.

SUFFICIENT ARMS

Apparently replying to criticism stirred up by a recent belligerent speech, Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson has said in effect that the United States defenses at the present time are adequate and ready. Some of the critics had suggested that the nation did not have quite enough guns and such to back up the secretary's fighting words. Said Johnson:

"The defenses of the United States, as of today, are, in the opinion of the joint chiefs, the President and myself, sufficient unto the needs of the hour."

We're glad to hear him say that, and we trust he is right. That might be a handy statement, by the way, to file away for the day when the Department of Defense, or one of the service departments, makes a loud noise about a need for bigger appropriations.

THE LOSER IN WAR

"Who won the war?" is a question sometimes asked, in thoughtfulness of cynicism. At least there is less doubt as to who lost it in Europe. Germany lost the war and must expect to take the consequences. This was the gist of Secretary of State Acheson's remarks to a recent news conference on the subject of policy in Germany.

Many Germans feel, said Acheson, that they had no responsibility for the war, and that their country should not suffer any unpleasant consequences. If they have not already discovered their mistake, they will soon do so. One such consequence is likely to be a new loss of the Saar coal and iron area, which is being incorporated in the French economy.

The move is by consent of the Saarlanders themselves. Premier Johannes Hoffmann of the Saar says that his peo-

THE PRECIOUS VOTE
Years ago my father said: "In this country of the free When it's time for you to vote, tempt often you will be. Now, remember what I say, that with a single vote you own choose the man you think is best though you stand with him alone.

"Clever men will promise much for the favor of the throng. They won't mention what is right, if it's pleasing to be wrong. But is one man should appear unafraid to tell the truth, Give your precious vote to him when you're in the polling booth.

"It may be the day will come when a candidate will rise Who won't think of winning votes where his country's interest lies. And, no matter what the cost, if that's right he will defend That vote of yours to him, and stay with him to the end."

of fears that Hawaii is not ready for statehood.

The real question probably is whether the United States is ready for the statehood of Hawaii and Alaska. The notion has been strong that the geographical structure of the nation was finished with the admission of the last state within the continental limits, Arizona in 1912. It seems a large step to reopen the structure and begin to include in it states which would be separated by water or foreign land areas, from the main body of states. But this is a matter which will continue to press on us until it is faced and dealt with.

BORES AMONG TEACHERS

College teachers include too many bores, in view of Dr. Carman of the faculty of Columbia University. Addressing the American Association of Physics Teachers, he comments on the weak second-rate teaching performance often noticeable among junior assistants or instructors. Colleges are right, in choosing teachers, to look at their knowledge of their subject, but they pay insufficient attention to teaching ability, suggested Dr. Carman.

Some colleges commit the further mistake of leaving the undergraduate instruction to the younger faculty members, while the giants of the teaching force teach only the advanced students. This is bad for students, and for professors as well.

The undergraduate should have the chance to get acquainted with the great masters of scholarship. Evidently there is no easy formula for ensuring good college teaching.

RETURN OF THE GESTAPO

It was not surprising news that the puppet government of East Germany has in effect revived the Gestapo, the dreaded secret police of Hitler's day. The new secret police will be patterned after the Russian secret police, and will serve Soviet purposes. A new version of the old Hitler youth organization also was called into being, in the creation of the "Free German Youth," membership in which will be required of all boys and girls as a qualification for participating in school and recreational activities. Presumably this group will also serve Soviet purposes.

These two actions can be added to numerous others which indicate that Russia is deliberately permitting the old Nazi group to return to power in East Germany, under Russian control, and set up again its brutal, totalitarian organization. This will not cause happiness in the rest of Europe, nor reduce uneasiness here.

DOWN TO THE SEA

No landlubber who has ever hung helplessly over the rail of a tossing ship could fail to sympathize with the Reserve crew of landsmen aboard the destroyer Ludlow on a recent stormy voyage from New York to San Juan. Reports from the Puerto Rican port said nine-tenths of the men, most of whom were at sea for the first time, were seasick. Any old salt will tell you that the woes of a storm-tossed destroyer are ample in themselves, without the addition of seasickness.

It is one thing to learn the sailing of a ship from books, and it is another thing to sail her. Yet it can be done, as the Navy has demonstrated more than once. But the books are of no help at all on the subject of what to do with the stomach when the roll of the ship is sufficient to slide a bowl of potatoes the length of a mess table in four-tenths of a second.

What happened to that miracle drug which was supposed to bring an end to the ancient "mal de mer"?

The European gentleman whose last name means "faithful" apparently forgot himself when he became married to two women at the same time.

In dreaming up commensurate periods for next summer let's get in line now for "Relax in the Hammock" week.

Cayuga Goes To State Meet With Unblemished Card

By The Associated Press

The 24 teams that will vie for three state high school basketball championships at Austin Thursday, Friday and Saturday carry some fancy records to the tournament.

Cayuga, for instance, goes into the class B meet with a record of 47 victories and no defeats. Waelder is in the same class and has won 40 and lost only.

Play in the three-day court carnival starts Thursday morning at 8:45. Class A and B teams see action the first day, with Class AA teams opening Friday.

Corpus Christi's 31 victories and four defeats is the most impressive record among the eight in the Class AA tournament. Defending champion Texas City, back to try for a second straight crown, has won 22 and lost five.

Top for Class A teams is Birdville of Fort Worth, with 29 wins and three defeats.

Bette Davis Is "Readjusting" To Free-Lance Life

By BOB THOMAS.

HOLLYWOOD, March 2. (Spl.) — Feeling like "a fish out of water" after 18 years at the Warner Studio, Bette Davis says she is getting re-adjusted to the freelance life.

"It wasn't easy," she related. "It was hard to leave behind the people you had worked with so many years. They seemed like a family, in fact, I knew more of them than I did my family."

"But it was a challenge. It's good for one to break the ties and seek new experiences. I left with no particularly hard feelings on my part."

"The next six months were a difficult period. I had a 'lost' feeling and wondered if anyone would ever want to hire me."

Several studios did. She took the job as the mother of two grown children in "The Story of a Divorce." Bette told of her trepidation in making tests for the part:

"I peered around the set and didn't see a familiar face. There was also a feeling of strangeness because I hadn't been before a camera in eight months. Suddenly I had a sensation I hadn't felt in years — will they think I can act well enough to get the role?"

She is now considering other film offers and would even welcome a return to her old alma mater, Warners.

"They have one thing I want and that is 'Ethan Frome,'" she declared. "I was scheduled to do it, but it was called off when I got pregnant."

"I can't understand why it was passed by, and pictures like 'Beyond the Forest' were made over the protest of all of us. That was a grim, dull picture with no uplift whatsoever. At least 'Ethan Frome' has a beautiful love story."

Julius Caesar adapted the Julian calendar which is the basis for the current Gregorian calendar from Egypt's calendar.

AN ANCIENT RELIGION GOES ITS ISSUES STILL REMAIN

Religion of Ancient Ephesus Now Non-Existent—Its Adherents Believed It Would Continue Forever—Archaeology Lays Bare the Mistaken Notions of Past Ages—The Christian Way Still Persists

By WILLIAM T. DOUGLASS.

Every traveler who has the opportunity to do so should visit old Ephesus which is easily accessible from the port of Smyrna in Turkey. Its ruins are magnificent and its circumference is magnified. Here is not only well preserved the theatre where the mob tried to lynch Paul, but also the great Doubt Church in which the early Church Councils were held.

Archaeology has laid bare the architectural beauties of the Roman world. The great harbor of Ephesus has been silted up and it now looks when viewed from a height, like a great green flying pan.

Past Glory Gone.

In vain, however, will the tourist look for any trace of the temple and statue of Diana, considered in the ancient world one of the seven wonders of the world and worshipped by all the peoples of what was then called Asia (now called Asia Minor). In Paul's day the local belief was that Diana's temple and statue were assured a permanent place of pre-eminence in the world. In our time it needs the help of an expert to point out even the unmarked site of the shrine. Yet the Apostle Paul testifies again and again shaping the thinking of mankind. All of which makes us wonder whether or not many of our present-day assumptions may be as far off the beam as were certain confident assumptions people cherished in Paul's day, and which many have continued to cherish through the centuries.

Diana was a sensible successor of the ancient mother goddesses of Asia, Nisus or earlier Cybile.

The traveler who would go beyond the beaten paths may see the famous figure of the weeping Niobe carved on the rocky face of Mt. Syllus. Battered by time and vandalism, Niobe still shows the features of a weeping woman. One sees in vain, in and about Ephesus, for any fragment of the temple of Diana and her once-abundant images such as Demeter and her fellow craftsmen manufactured.

Paul Confronted Trouble.

But in her day, many-breasted Diana dominated Ephesus and the adjacent world. When Paul, the lonely, insignificant Jew, entered Ephesus with the new faith, he took up apostolic preaching among social, political, and commercial interests. Do we often enough consider the audacity of the missionary as he confronts entrenched and age-old heathendom with a simple story?

There were Jewish synagogues in Ephesus, and in them, as usual, Paul made his first approach to his own people. But three months of Pauline teaching aroused such opposition that he was driven out.

Then, Paul, hired a hall, the school of Tyrannus. For two years he preached in this early form of a gospel tabernacle. He got the crowds and became the sensation of the city. But since every true religious revival is bound for bad business, Paul soon found himself in plenty of trouble. Finally, the trade unions and manufacturers' organizations joined forces and made things so hot for Paul that he had to leave the city. Cartels and pressure groups may appear to be strictly modern, but they are as ancient as recorded history and always sinister in design and unscrupulous in method.

A simple truth. Many was the message which Paul preached and over which a whole city seemed to have risen. In

County Purchases Motorgrader For Precinct One Use

One motorgrader for use by G. C. Kent, commissioner, Precinct 1, was purchased at the regular meeting of the commissioners court Wednesday morning. A number of other matters were considered before the group adjourned at noon.

Five bids were received, but only two of them were for the 100-HP machines as advertised for. Kent purchased a Caterpillar 12, R. B. George Machinery Company, for $11,464.32. Shaw Equipment Company bid $11,480 for a 104-HP machine.

Bids for 76-HP motorgraders submitted included Browning and Ferrell, $10,245, with 2 percent off for cash; Berry Brothers, $9,500, less 2 percent for cash; Hiway Machinery Company, $10,945.74 and Shaw Equipment Company, $10,103.

The Berry Brothers representative urged the consideration of his bid for the March project. It was the first time, however, Judge John D. Huffstutter advised the spokesman that the advertisement called for 104-HP machines, not the 76-HP on which he submitted a bid.

Randall Tinkle, Emhouse filling station operator, spoke of the bad intersection where traffic from the Corsicana-Country Club comes into the Emhouse-Corsicana slab, and also at the edge of town where the signs should warn through traffic to use Chambers Creek bridge north of Emhouse is out.

Paul challenged the whole sordid system, hence the anger of the miserable beneficiaries of this mistaken ecclesiastical system.

Some Modern Mistakes.

Religion is a very simple matter after all, and we err grievously when we allow ourselves to think otherwise. Its demands are the common virtues of everyday living, the validity of which practically everyone admits.

To many moderns, religion is an intellectual system which has to be put together like a puzzle, and all the parts fit. But Paul, it was a life of faith, lived daily in wholesomeness, enthusiasm, joy, and always with the needs of others in view.

Let us not try to complicate it. Christianity according to the New Testament is not a system, a belief or an organization, but a way of life in which to walk. And the simple admonition continues to be, "Here is the Way; walk ye in it."

Seven Sentence Sermons.

What Christ does is the best answer to who He is.—MacLaren.

It is good to have money and the things which money can buy; but it is good too to check up once in a while and make sure that you have not lost the things money cannot buy.—Anon.

Art little? Do thy little well; And thy comfort know, Great men can do their greatest work. No better than just so.—Goethe.

Finally, my brethren, be strong in the Lord, and in the power of His might.—Ephesians 6:10.

A large part of Christian virtue consists in good habits.—Paley.

Sweet mercy! to the gates of heaven This minstrel lead, his song for giving. The ruseful conflict, the heart given.

With vain endeavor, And memory of earth's bitter leaven Effaced forever.—Wardsworth.

The beginning of philosophy is a consciousness of our own weakness and inability in necessary things.—Epicurus.

Bush Proposed As National Science Foundation Chief

WASHINGTON, March 2. (UPI) — Rep. Price D-Tex., said today he will urge President Truman to name Dr. Vannevar Bush as head of a new National Science Foundation now approved by both the Senate and House.

Bush was at the forefront of America's wartime scientific research effort. As chief of the proposed foundation he would be carrying out the same duty in peace-time.

His wartime record weighed heavily with security-conscious House members. Before passing the foundation bill yesterday they tied to it some of the most stringent security and loyalty checks yet to be required of any federal agency.

Following house passage, the bill went to the Senate preparatory to ironing out what its supporters consider minor differences between versions passed by the two chambers.

As approved by the House, the present bill would create a foundation charged with spurring research in the basic sciences, and subsidizing—the training of promising young scientists to strengthen America's scientific strength in the race for world scientific supremacy.

The foundation would be prevented from engaging in atomic research, now restricted to the Atomic Energy Commission.

But otherwise it would deal across a broad field of basic research in mathematics, physics, biology, medicine, engineering and other sciences.

To guard against American scientific secrets leaking to other scientists, House wrote into the bill stringent requirements for:

(1) Anti-Communist affidavits by scholarship candidates, and (2) far-reaching FBI loyalty and security checks for employees and scholarship candidates as well as foreign scientists who might become associated in foundation projects under international scientific exchange agreements.

Chiang "retired" from the presidency in January of 1949. He was succeeded by Vice President Lo Tang-kuang.

"I am in New York recuperating from a surgical operation yesterday said he would return to China and contest Chiang's right to resume the presidency.

(The Nationalist) acting president said Chiang became a private citizen when he retired and questioned his right to resume the presidency without an election.

A member of Chiang's staff said the generalissimo resumed the office at the insistence of members of the national assembly, the legislative Yuan, the armed forces and various public bodies.

This source refused to concede Li's contention Chiang had violated the Nationalist constitution. He added that whatever Li says in New York "will have no effect" in China.

Wang said a statement by Chiang in January 1949 requested Li to take charge of the presidential duties.

Wang said Li's right to act for the president depended solely on this public statement by Chiang. He said the president's power failed if the president had every right under the constitution to return to power by making a public statement relieving the vice president of the duties of acting president.

WASHINGTON LETTER... by Jane Eads

WASHINGTON—Pork and pork products, Irish potatoes and eggs will be in plentiful supply during March. How do we know? The Production and Marketing Administrator of the U. S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) makes a point of tipping off retailers, restaurant and hotel people, dining car stewards and us consumers alike on such things regularly.

Eggs and dried beans and peas are February tops. There's a record egg production this year. The USDA would like to see the home baker serve another three or four eggs per family member each week. It urged the retailer to help push eggs.

The USDA has an elaborate system for keeping abreast with food trends throughout the country. Along about the middle of every month it gets detailed reports from experts all over the country who are scouting producing and marketing areas. These reports list items which the field men believe will be plentiful two months ahead.

Here in Washington the folks look over the reports, recommend items they think should be listed. Their recommendations are hashed over by other experts who've been following crop reports and national figures. Finally they come up with 18 to 20 items which the public will be most plentiful. The national list is then sent out to the USDA's area offices at New York, Chicago, San Francisco, Dallas and Atlanta. Here they are again checked by area chiefs, who may add certain plentiful local items or delete items not so plentiful. These are the items which may be plentiful east of the Mississippi and too early for the West Coast.

In addition to the featured items, pork and pork products, Irish potatoes and eggs, other items suggested for March consumption include broilers and fryers, hens, dried beans, manufactured dairy products, fresh and frozen carrots, cabbage, beets, lettuce, spinach, canary beans and lima beans, canned peaches, raisins and dried prunes. In its releases USDA each month explains why foods are plentiful and why they are good. It gives cooking tips too.

"Pork is the bargain meat this spring," USDA points out. "Heavy hog marketing continues to provide a bounty of tempting pork in all forms—ham, bacon, picnics, pork chops, roasts and sausages. In addition, lard and fat back are economical buys."

U. S. Propaganda Needs Less "Jazz", Britisher Tells Knife and Fork Club; Discusses Reds, War And Economics

By DON MORRISSEY

Daily Sun Staff

No definite message was given members of the Corsicana Knife and Fork club by Capt. F. Cotton-Minchin, British Consul at Kansas City, but he left the group with his impressions of America and Great Britain.

In his rambling discourse the British official talked his way around the world and concluded that people in other countries would have a much better understanding of the American people if Hollywood and the Voice of America did better jobs.

He said the Voice of America radio program needs more heart and less jazz, and that Hollywood's films should be of a nature which really tells of American life.

He spoke at the Corsicana Country Club, Monday night.

Capt. Cotton-Minchin said some folks in the United States don't have the faith and belief in Great Britain that he had, but that is understandable.

Speaking of the relationship of the two countries the Captain said:

"The United States is sacred being on the receiving end of the last war. I believe it will be the last time you are so spared."

"Because you were so spared, he continued, "it's difficult for you to appreciate what the war meant."

He enlarged on England's war suffering by saying that some civilians faced greater dangers than many troops in the fields.

Capt. Cotton-Minchin said it was difficult for the average American to understand why England and other non-communist countries are in their present fix.

He said conditions exist because of the war and the threat of Communism.

He added that both Communist members of Parliament were defeated in the recent election and that Communism never was a great threat in Great Britain.

He explained Great Britain's recognition of Communist China as a necessary action. He said the United States has recognized Vichy France during World War II and that Vichy was a "most vicious form of government."

He said the United States was able to plan its invasions of Africa and France by making this contact and that its members in Vichy France kept Great Britain informed of Vichy's actions.

"Now that we have recognized Communist China, we will be able to keep a finger on what's going on there and will be able to repay the services the United States gave England in the war," he added.

Capt. Cotton-Minchin said he thought the United States was going to recognize Communist China but that actions against state officials stopped the plan. He was referring to the capture of Angus Ward and others.

He also said he thought it only a matter of time before the US recognized the Communist government in China.

Talking about the actions of the Communists, the British official said the Reds think nothing of the deeds they perform.

"They consider them necessary and will continue to act as they do until they gain their ends," he said.

Capt. Cotton-Minchin said people are too worried about the happenings in China. "It's too bad," he asked about the recent election.

Blue And Gold Game Arranged Monday Evening

Tigers' Families Will Be Honored At Annual Game

The Corsicana Dads Club will start its 1950-51 membership drive at the annual Blue and Gold intersquad game on March 16, it was decided at a meeting of the organization at the high school here Monday night.

The decision to start the membership drive in the spring for the first time in the history of the club came as a special concession to the parents of the boys who are now engaged in spring football practice at Corsicana high school and junior high school.

Reserved Section

The Blue and Gold game will be dedicated to the boys families, and the reserved seat sections will be set aside for their use at the springtime game. They will be recognized at halftime with appropriate ceremonies.

The father of a football boy may buy a Dads Club membership ticket at $1 and be admitted along with his family, free of charge to the Blue and Gold game, the Dads decided.

The game is set for March 16. Actually, two games are slated at the occasion, one beginning at 7 o'clock and one at 8 o'clock.

For other Tiger fans who wish to buy memberships, Dads Club ticket booths will be set up inside Tiger Field.

As was the practice last year, reserved tickets will be sold to the man, Festus Pierce and A. D. Doctor.

A membership committee composed of Talmadge Canant, chairman, Festus Pierce and A. D. Doctor was appointed.

Prices for admission to the Blue and Gold game will be 75 and 25 cents.

R. C. Harkins and Roy Bristow were named on a committee to arrange for programs and other club details in connection with the spring game.

The Dads voted to discontinue sponsorship of the annual Green and White game during junior high spring football practice on March 1. The club offered its assistance in any way to the school, which will sponsor the tilt.

Tom Paschal, representing the Tiger Exes, reported that $381.91 is still owed on the new electric scoreboard installed last fall at Tiger Field. Total cost of the board was $1,692.57. Paschal will continue to work in an effort to raise the remainder, until the next meeting of the Dads Club.

A number of parents were on hand as special guests at the Monday night meeting of the booster organization.

President Jack Everheart was in charge of the session.

Kerr Building Is Purchased By W. P. Brown

W. P. Brown, owner of the Johnson's Pharmacy, Thursday announced the purchase of the Kerr building, 214-218 North Main street, from the First National Bank of Corsicana, Texas.

A Knife and Fork Club member asked—"If England is so sound economically, why does she need so much aid?"

Capt. Cotton-Minchin said England was helping other European countries as much as herself and many things she needs come from the United States and must be purchased with dollars.

"England," he said, "isn't producing and selling enough export materials for these dollars. England is buying three times more from the US than she is selling to the states."

The speaker said socialized medicine was the "accepted thing" in England.

"It is not a political issue in Great Britain," he said. "In the United States it is."

He said the program was accepted by all political parties and the general public.

Asked about the devaluation of the English pound and whether it was a master stroke, the British Consul said, "It remains to be seen whether or not it was a master stroke to help exports. The United States will have to spend more to bring about economic normalcy."

Great Britain's arm shipments were questioned and the speaker said the terms of treaties and it provided goods and dollars.

When asked about British and American oil industries, he said he was unable to speak with authority on the subject.

Dr. Erwin F. Bohmfalk, president of the Knife and Fork club, gave the invocation and introduced the speaker. He announced the next meeting of the club would be held March 21.

When solid sources of nitrogen are used as a sidedressing, they may be applied on the surface while crops are young because there is usually sufficient rain to carry them into the soil. When they are applied later and dry weather follows, fertilizers applied on the surface may have little value. Under these conditions, anhydrous ammonia applied 5 inches deep has been much superior to ammonium nitrate applied on the surface.

A large number of experiments have been conducted with corn, cotton, and oats comparing anhydrous ammonia to ammonium nitrate. When 32 pounds nitrogen were applied 4 inches deep to cotton before planting, anhydrous ammonia increased yield 354 pounds of seed cotton as compared to 277 for ammonium nitrate. The superiority of anhydrous ammonia is no doubt due to less leaching of nitrogen. Both sources increased the yield 300 pounds of seed cotton when used as a sidedressing. Anhydrous ammonia made an additional 38 pounds of seed cotton when applied 6 inches deep. When applied to corn, the increase was 16.2 bushels for anhydrous ammonia and 14.3 bushels for ammonium nitrate.

Anhydrous ammonia is transferred from tank to tank by compressors and pumps, and by its own pressure. It is made, transported, stored, and applied without being picked up or touched by a man.

When gaseous anhydrous ammonia is applied to the soil, it combines with clay and organic matter to make ammonia clay.

Ammonium clay and organic matter are solids, just like ammonium sulphate.

So long as nitrogen is in the ammonium form, it does not leach out of the soil. In fertile soil in spring, ammonia is changed to nitrate nitrogen in four to six weeks. Nitrogen leaches only in the nitrate form.

Young plants prefer ammonium nitrogen, and they grow off more rapidly when supplied nitrogen in this form. Older plants prefer nitrate nitrogen; however, in our experiments, anhydrous ammonia has been equal to ammonium nitrate for side-dressing.
